

For the golfing dad: A few Father's Day gift ideas

I get asked every year: What do you want for Father's Day?

Here's a list of products I've seen recently that may appeal to the golf dad in your life.

Big Blade Blade

The Blade is a Swiss Army Knife designed as a golf cart. Taking up a five-inch profile and weighing less than 15 pounds, the Blade is perfect for golfers with trunks filled with baseball gloves, soccer balls, and ballet slippers. It folds easily and comes in multiple designs.

For more information on the Big Max Blade line, visit bigmaxusa.com.

Els for Autism Box

It's well-known that Ernie Els' son Ben has autism. The Els for Autism Box is filled with golf products. Proceeds from the sales go to the Els for Autism Foundation. The box includes TaylorMade Tour Preferred balls, a headcover, a polo, golf socks, and other products.

Golf Compressor Warm-up Club

Ever get to the first tee without warming up? Perhaps a more accurate question: Have you ever warmed up before reaching the first tee?

The DST Compressor can address your first-tee blues. Using a curved shaft club that recreates the proper set-up and position, the club builds muscle memory and improves the swing through impact. The result is improved accuracy and consistency.

For more information, visit dstgolf.com.

Champ C1 Putter Grips

These grips, made from a light polyurethane material, allow the golfer to take a firm handle on the shaft. The C1 helps eliminate the wrists from the swing and straightens short putts. Used properly, it promotes a more consistent stroke.

MCC junior golf camps

Manchester Country Club will hold a series of three-day junior golf camps. Sessions are held from 8:30-11 a.m. The dates are July 13-15, July 27-29, Aug. 10-12, and Aug. 24-26. The $100 fee includes putting, chipping, full swings, etiquette, rules, and fitness. Collared shirts and khaki pants or shorts are required. For information, call John Cook 860-646-0226, ext. 1.

Ken House's golf column appears weekly through the golf season. To submit golf news or offer suggestions, please email him at golf@journalinquirer.com.
